FUEN AT A GLANCE

Advocate and umbrella organisation

FUEN represents the interests of the European minorities.

FUEN is the most important advocate and the biggest umbrella organisation of the autochthonous, national minorities in Europe. FUEN unites over 90 member organisations from 32 European countries, with new members joining every year.

FUEN sees itself as a mutual support community that represents the interests of the European minorities on a regional, national, and particularly a European level. It maintains a large network of policy makers, scientific institutions, cultural and educational institutions, youth organisations, media and other associates.

FUEN works for the preservation and promotion of identity, language, culture, rights and traditions of the European minorities. It is the mouthpiece of the minorities in dealing with international organisations, especially the European Union, the Council of Europe, the United Nations and the OSCE.

FUEN is represented in three different locations: The Secretariat-General in Flensburg, in Berlin and in Brussels.

FUEN is headed by a seven-person executive board, led by the FUEN president Loránt Vincze.

The MinoritySafePack Initiative – a European Citizens Initiative supported by the FUEN and their member organisations - will attract the attention of the European public towards the minorities.

A FEW WORDS AT THE BEGINNING ...

A historical turnaround for European minorities

On 29 March 2017 the Minority SafePack Initiative – the European Citizens’ Initiative for autochthonous national minorities – was officially registered by the European Commission. This was a perfect sensation!

The Minority SafePack Initiative – MSPI – is not only the first Citizens’ Initiative, that has successfully raised a claim at the European Court of Justice and was afterwards – in coordination with the EU-Commission – partially registered. MSPI is also the first successful initiative for European minorities.

After the initiative had been submitted for registration in July 2013, it was rejected by the European Commission in September 2013. According to the European Commission, the proposed initiative fell “manifestly outside the framework of the Commission’s powers”.

The decision was a harsh blow for everybody involved and brought up once again the dilemma of minority policies and the issue of responsibilities and power in the European Union. Too many times European minorities had addressed Europe as their protecting power in vain.

The Idea of the Minority SafePack Initiative was born many years before it came to an official submission. The initiative developed an enormous attraction and was supported by minorities, their organisations and other partners, no matter whether in- or outside the European Union.

Quickly the initiative became more than a citizens’ initiative of the European Union – it was the perfect example of an act of solidarity, a visible campaign and political strategy, that would eventually put minority issues on a European agenda. At the same time the initiative stands for the recognition of active citizenship, the tool of direct democracy in the European Union, that needs to be taken seriously and is a clear vote for Europe.

You are not alone. One million signatures for diversity in Europe

In autumn 2013, after thorough analysis, a high-profile citizens’ committee filed the cause, that would take three and a half years before a judgement was announced by the European Court of Justice.

This was a time when the prospect of success, as well as the minority issue in Europe as a whole, had been critically discussed over and over again.

Nevertheless, the FUEN in its function of promoter of the initiative, used this time to reorganise itself: the organisation increased its capacities, consolidated budgets, opened new offices, attracted new sponsors, developed new formats and improved the existing network.

This was also a time when things in Europe and the entire world changed significantly.

In this context things take an unexpected turn: already the hearing on 16 September 2016 strengthened the assumption, that the Court could deny the Commission’s rejection, which was eventually confirmed on 3 February 2017 in Luxembourg.

Afterwards things happened very quickly. The citizens’ committee, its supporters and the FUEN – all of them conferred about which steps to take next and a dialogue with the EU-Commission was launched.

The decision of the EU-Commission of 29 March 2017 in favour of the initiative’s registration, is a decision in favour of the protection of national and linguistic minorities, as well as for the strengthening of cultural and linguistic diversity within the European Union!

Launched in 2013 in a colourful event during the FUEN Congress in Brixen (South Tyrol), celebrations will take place in Cluj-Napoca / Kolozsvár / Klausenburg in occasion of the 2017 FUEN Congress, with initiators, friends and supporters eventually coming together again.

It is a historical ability to resist in difficult times, to wait for the right moment and to grasp the opportunity when it arises. A few years are a tiny little part in the history of minority protection and the 60-year-old activity of the FUEN and its member organisations.

So let’s assume that this is the right moment – lets bundle the forces of our common commitment:

Susann Schenk,
FUEN General Secretary

„We want to change the face of Europe, put the minority question on the agenda and it finally looks like we will manage to do so. After a surprising positive scenario, I am optimistic that we will eventually succeed.“, so FUEN Präsident Lorànt Vincze bei der Konferenz zum MinoritySafePack am 04. Mai 2017 im Europäischen Parlament.

FUEN 2016

Recognition for “building bridges”

The year 2016

The year 2016 was characterised by the following events and initiatives:

- the 61st FUEN Congress in the European City of Culture Breslau/Wrocław,
- new elections of the FUEN Presidium
- cooperation in the context of the German OSCE Chairmanship in 2016,
- organisation of the 3rd edition of the EUROPEADA, European Football Championship of the autochthonous, national minorities,
- the Minority SafePack Initiative,
- vast commitment for the issues of European minorities and for more than 90 member organisations,
- various activities of the Working Groups,
- targeted lobby work on all political levels,
- trustworthy cooperation with sponsors and supportive regions
- the launching of the projects and the Fact Finding Mission in Ukraine, Georgia, the Western Balkans and the Caucasus.

The development of the situation in Europe over the last years, characterised by a worldwide refugee crisis, wars in Ukraine and Syria, an ongoing economic crisis, with a tendency to renationalization, disintegration and restoration of the borders in Europe, has brought up several matters in terms of security and cooperation, which reinforces the OSCE as organization in Europe. It is uncontested that in Europe and in the rest of the World many critical situations are still related to different nationalities living together.

The focus of the OSCE on national minorities, tolerance and non-discrimination has strengthened the FUEN and its member organisations. The German OSCE Chairmanship dedicated its commitment to the national minorities and their potential to arbitrate between states.

According to the German Secretary of State Steinmeier, who suggested that the expertise of FUEN should be employed in Germany’s foreign policy, the FUEN is willing to share its experience and the minorities’ knowledge and skills on conflict resolution and prevention.

The FUEN dedicated a separate programme to this special year including various projects, contributions and cooperation initiatives. Since its foundation, the Organisation for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) is an indispensable partner in the protection of minorities.

Since August 2013, Astrid Thors from Finland is the new High Commissioner for national minorities of the OSCE. Since the establishment of the role of High Commissioner in 1992, four officials have addressed many inter-ethnic conflicts in various parts of Europe. In their work, they are less seeking for public attention, but are trying to de-escalate tensions and conflicts thanks to silent diplomacy. This is how the High Commissioners set the course for the development of minority protection in Europe. The OSCE Commissioners have elaborated several recommendations on the minority rights on education and language, participation, media, police, integration and international relations, which receive more and more attention.

For this reason the High Commissioner of the OSCE, Astrid Thors, was nominated key speaker at the annual congress, which took place in the European Cultural Capital Breslau / Wrocław.

In her speech, Astrid Thors commented the current situation in Europe and in the rest of the World. She pointed out that it is part of her diplomatic function to carry out dialogues on conflict prevention throughout Europe. “This is not an easy task. Hate speeches become more and more frequent and we can currently see alarming developments in some regions”, she says. “The reason can be found in the current refugee situation, which puts under risk the willingness to adopt a tolerant mind-set. Instead of playing off minorities against each other, societies should aim to achieve an intercultural dialogue. Once the conditions for a peaceful coexistence are given, education, justice and other institutions of everyday life must be accessible for everybody.” Astrid Thors wants the minorities in Europe to take an advisory role and sees the present representatives as bridge builders between the communities.

Astrid Thors defines FUEN a strong organization that is working hard to improve the situation of national minorities and strengthen their political representation and participation. Moreover, interesting FUEN initiatives improve the position and the visibility of the minority representatives. Mrs. Thors concludes that for more than half a century FUEN has been successful in formulating the common issues of the national minorities.

The FUEN also welcomed the intention of the German Chair of the OSCE to focus in 2016 especially on those topics, that are strongly related to the current crisis in the European security order, making clear that the commitment will also continue in future.

Astrid Thors, High Commissioner for national minorities of the Organisation for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) about the FUEN:

„We see FUEN as a forceful organization working hard to improve the position of national minorities and their political representation and participation. FUEN’s interesting initiatives, such as the Forum of European Minorities and the Minority SafePack, enhance both the voice and the visibility of minority actors. FUEN has been able to successfully articulate the common concerns of national minorities across Europe for over half a century.

Since 1949 you have been active in bringing together minority communities to make their voices heard at the international level. The linguistic rights of minorities, their education, and full participation are recurrent topics that my institution has identified as being significant for reducing inter-ethnic tensions and thus mitigating the possibility of tensions escalating into conflict. These are also among FUEN’s key areas of interest, which are addressed by this annual congress as well as within projects directed at minority and majority communities.”

An annual event on a European level

From Breslau / Wrocław to Cluj-Napoca / Kolozsvár / Klausenburg

The FUEN Congress is the largest annual meeting of the autochthonous national minorities in Europe. For more than 60 years the FUEN Congress has taken place in cooperation with the FUEN member organizations and has become a real institution. Around 250 representatives of minorities attend the FUEN Congress and discuss current issues of the minorities in a European context. Thanks to the Congress, European minorities receive significant attention and consideration in Europe that goes beyond their regional issues.

In May 2016 the 61st FUEN Congress took place in the European Capital of Culture in Breslau/Wrocław in cooperation with the Association of German Social Cultural Societies in Poland (VdG), the organisation of the German minority in Poland. The official opening speech was held by Astrid Thors, High Commissioner on National Minorities of the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE). In the context of the German OSCE Chairmanship, the congress was dedicated to the issues of the national minorities and their role in Europe. The minorities in Poland described their current situation with the question on Europe's future in times of a European crisis leading to a lively discussion. The FUEN, on the other hand, presented its positive annual results and a new FUEN president was elected.

The 62nd Congress of the Federal Union of European Nationalities (FUEN) is going to take place from 17 - 21 May 2017 in the Grand Hotel Napoca in Cluj-Napoca / Kolozsvár / Klausenburg in Romania. The Congress will be organised by the FUEN member organisation Romániai Magyar Demokrata Szövetség, the Democratic Alliance of Hungarians in Romania (RMDSZ) together with other member organisations. This FUEN Congress will be dedicated to the successful Minority SafePack Initiative and the contribution of the minorities to the European cultural heritage. The main speaker at the event will be Tobor Navracics, European Commissioner for education, culture, youth and sports.

The FUEN Congress 2018 has already been assigned to West Frisia and will take place in the European Capital of Culture Ljouwert/Leeuwarden-Fryslân. Together with the member organisation Ried fan de Fryske Beweging and other partners the congress aims to involve the minorities in the cultural programme in the most different ways. Indeed, considering the 20th anniversary of the European Charter for Regional and Minority Languages of the Council of Europe in 2018, special attention is dedicated to plurilingualism and linguistic diversity

The request for tender on the hosting of the FUEN Congress in 2019 has already been passed to the FUEN member organisations. In the context of the common projects with the minorities in Ukraine, that have taken place since 2015, the idea of a FUEN Congress was expressed during the current Fact Finding Mission 2016 in Kiev. Indeed, a common application for the hosting of the FUEN Congress in 2019 has already been presented by the minority organisations in Ukraine. Moreover in 2019 the FUEN celebrates its 70th anniversary.

We are looking for Member Organisations to organise the upcoming FUEN Congresses: 2019, 2020, 2021, 2022, 2023 ...

Ambitious goals and experienced representatives

Assembly of Delegates

The assembly of the FUEN delegates took place on 21 May 2016 in the occasion of the 61st FUEN Congress in the European Capital of Culture Breslau / Wrocław.

FUEN General Secretariat

European commitment and a highly-motivated team

FUEN General Secretary is Susann Schenk, a member of the minority of the Lusatian Sorbs. As General Secretary, she is responsible for the strategic development of the organisation and needs to ensure the respective basic requirements.

Our locations

FUEN operates in three locations with the headquarters of the General Secretariat being located in Flensburg, a city with very strong historical links for FUEN. Moreover, Flensburg is also home to the FUEN House of Minorities for events and projects.

As a European umbrella organisation and a body that carries out representative functions the FUEN has its offices in Brussels/Bruelles. In 2015 and 2016 the Hanse-Office was staffed with Frank de Boer, who belongs to the West Frisian minority.

Since 2015 the FUEN has also a representative office in the Bundeshaus in Berlin, that functions also as coordination centre for the Working Group of German Minorities. The office is led by Éva Adel Péntzes from the German minority in Hungary.

Our team

The FUEN has gradually increased its number of employees from 3,5 at the beginning to currently 15 team members (01.05.2017) working in various offices and projects.

The medium-term planning foresees a further increase to 20 permanent team members for 18 positions in 3 locations in collaboration with free project staff and freelancers.

The establishment of a European team operating in three locations requires respective measures. We would like to thank the team members of 2014 – 2016 for their successful and tireless commitment.

The increase of personnel was carried out in 2016 and 2017 in a recruiting process with professional advice of a recruiting agency. FUEN disposes of a significant pool of applicants and a great deal of interest. Together with its partners, especially the youth organisations of European Nationalities, the FUEN aims to provide for the respective education of the younger generation and future employees.

FUEN COMMUNICATION

FUEN Membership

FUEN is the largest umbrella organisation of the European autochthonous national minorities and aims to represent their interests through a membership structure. About 25% of the approximately 400 national minorities in Europe are directly represented within the FUEN, with many of them maintaining direct contact with the organisation. The function of the Federal Union of European Nationalities as umbrella organisation is rather unique in Europe. Currently the FUEN has 93 members in 32 European states.

In 2016 FUEN approved the admission of three new members and in 2017 other three applications for membership are going to be submitted.

Moreover, there is a number of organisations, whose membership application is still in process. In the year 2016/2017 seventeen organisations contacted FUEN for membership, which increases the number of potential candidates to a total of 32. Applicants need to go through a detailed application procedure, which is supported by on-site visits and a cooperation in various projects.

In terms of membership requests in 2016 – 2017 the following on-site visits were carried out:

- Visit of the applicant Russian School of Estonia, Vice President Olga Martens
- Visit of the applicant Kosovo Youth Union Association in Kosovo, Vice President Halit Habip Oglu
- Visit of the applicant Kirdzhali Turkish Culture and Arts Association in Bulgaria, Vice President Halit Habip Oglu

Thanks to new initiatives, as for example the project “Minorities in Western Balkans”, and the vast activities of the FUEN Working Groups, more and more minority organisations get access to the European network. Besides the regular and extraordinary membership FUEN offers also a sustaining membership, as for example for institutions.

Thanks to its gradual growth the FUEN is going to strengthen further its unique role in Europe.

Membership fees

The resolution on the current system of membership fees was passed in 2011 in view of the Congress in Eisenstadt/Željezno. Fees vary according to the category an organisation belongs to, which in turn depends on the number of members a minority has and its geopolitical position (EU, Extra-EU, CIS). Over the last 5 years (2012-2016) this system was proven to be efficient and helped to secure the permanent income that is needed to finance the FUEN.

The payment of membership fees is not only a symbolic contribution, but regulates the active and passive voting rights, the entitlement to vote, the participation and the authorisation of FUEN events, as well as the application for their hosting.

Promoting a stimulus-contribution system between member and umbrella organisation, the FUEN tries to increase the support for the single members, the regional presence, as well as the extent to which members are involved in FUEN activities. The positive development over the last years and the momentum of the Minority SafePack Initiative have created ideal conditions to achieve these goals.

The FUEN is aware of the most different situations of the single minorities and their organisations. Many of them make use of the status of sustaining member. As the FUEN sees itself as a community based on solidarity, the membership fee system will be analysed to see whether it corresponds to current needs. In this context, a designated Working Group will be established. The underlying principle should be that the FUEN works for its members and receives in turn a contribution, that corresponds to the capacities and the respective situation of the single minorities. At the same time the participation in events and the access to mandates shall not only depend on the financial capabilities of the minorities.

The FUEN Working groups

The FUEN Working groups allow members to focus on specific topics or activities within the organisation.

In 2016, the Assembly of Delegates passed an amendment that provides statutory function to the Working groups within the FUEN. The Working Groups work closely together with the FUEN Presidium and the General Secretariat and report to the Assembly of Delegates.

In their annual conferences in October and November 2016 the working groups have finalised their agenda and elected their spokesmen. Also in 2016, the working groups have further developed their image and communication platforms. FUEN member organisations have suggested to form new working groups; a working group for non-kinstate minorities, and for education and language. After approval by the Presidium additional working groups can be established at any time.

The activities of the Working Groups of the Slavic, German and Turkish minorities require major commitment of its members.

Working Group of German Minorities within the FUEN

2016 – Anniversary. The Working Group of German Minorities within the FUEN (AGDM) was founded in 1991 and represents 20 organisations of German minorities. Since 2015 the AGDM has a coordination centre in Berlin, lead by Éva Péntzes, who belongs to the minorities of Germans in Hungary.

Until October 2016 it was FUEN Vice President and Vice Chairman of the International Association for German Culture (IVDK) Olga Martens to preside the AGDM, the oldest Working Group within the FUEN. For the next three years the Working Group will be chaired by Bernhard Gaida, Chairman of the Association of Socio-Cultural Societies in Poland (VdG).

The annual conference in occasion of the 25th anniversary of the Working Group of German Minorities was, without any doubt, the highlight of the year 2016. The German Chancellor Angela Merkel received the AGDM and its representatives in the Federal Chancellery in Berlin. She congratulated them on the 25th anniversary and expressed her appreciation for their dedication and effort and the precious role of the German minorities for intercultural relations.

Under the supervision of Hartmut Koschyk, Member of the German Bundestag and Federal Government Commissioner for Matters Related to Ethnic German Resettlers and National Minorities, other high-level political events followed: for example with Members of the German Bundestag, in the Office of the Federal President, in the Federal Foreign Office with Minister of State Böhmer and intermediary organisations, with representatives of the Federal Ministry of the Interior and the Federal Government Commissioner for Culture and the Media.

The reception took place in the representative office of the German-speaking community, the Wallonia – Brussels Federation and of the Walloon Region in Berlin.

Additionally, in 2016 the AGDM coordination centre organised the following activities and initiatives:

- Three more work sessions, which took place between the annual conferences in January, March and May.
- The approval of the AGDM agenda and the elaboration of the programme for 2016 and 2017.
- Visits of the Organisations of German Minorities in Berlin.
- Participation in the open day of the Federal Ministry of the Interior.
- Involvement in the elaboration of the brochure on German minorities, published by the Federal Ministry of the Interior.
- AGDM Website www.agdm.fuen.org,
- Participation if the FUEN Congress.
- Participation in the EUROPEADA – 3rd European Football Championship of the autochthonous, national minorities in South Tyrol with 3 male and one female team and many media reports.

Priorities for 2017:

- Annual conference 2017.
- Travelling exhibition „21 German Stories“ about German minorities in Central and Eastern Europe, as well as in states of the former Soviet Union. The exhibition is supposed to be officially inaugurated in Berlin in September 2017.
- Elaboration of a new funding policy in view of the parliamentary elections.

In the run-up to the parliamentary elections in 2017, the AGDM members agreed on the elaboration of a new funding policy considering the forward-looking and systematic cooperation between the German minorities and the German government.

The Working Group of Slavic Minorities / Slowjanske mjeńšiny

Focus: establishment of coordination centre. The Working Group of Slavic Minorities was founded in 1991. Since then, annual seminars for Slavic minorities are being organised, also thanks to the commitment of the Lusatian Sorbs. The venue alternates every year between Lusatia and other communities of Slavic minorities.

More than 20 Slavic minorities are represented in the FUEN. Additionally, the organisation maintains relations with many other Slavic minorities in Europe which, over the years, enhanced the development of a network of around 50 organisations.

The XIX FUEN Seminar of Slavic Minorities took place on 27 – 30 October 2016 and was organised by the FUEN member organisations Domowina, Association of Lusatian Sorbs/Zwjazk Łužiskich Serbow, and the Demokratski savez Hrvata u Vojvodini.

Nine organisations from seven countries (Germany, Serbia, Poland, Slovakia, Ukraine, Croatia and Austria) participated in the Seminar that took place in Subotica. Besides the information exchange on current FUEN issues and the activities of the single organisations attending the seminar, the main topics of the agenda regarded the resolution on work guidelines for the working group's future activities, as well as the election of a spokesman. In terms of content, participants covered topics such as „Political Participation” and “Plurilingual education models”. When comparing the various existing models, it became evident that the situation of the single minorities varies significantly in terms of both, their legal status in their home countries as well as the effective implementation of their rights and the level of available funding.

The new spokesman of the Working Group of Slavic Minorities is Bernhard Ziesch. At the same time the Working Group pointed out once more the importance of a coordination centre.

Unlike the Working Groups of the German and Turkish Minorities, whose common feature is their common language, the Working Group of Slavic Minorities is characterised by a series of different Slavic languages, with Czech and Russian having the status of working languages. Moreover, in 2016, the Working Group's website was updated and foresees now also an extension to mobile users. One of the goals is also to create a news portal in different languages.

The main objective is to provide the Working Group of Slavic Minorities with the same conditions as other Working Groups and to support the single minorities, who currently are rather poorly positioned and represented.

The Working Group points out, that regardless of the type of funding, all member organisations need to be treated equally, also in terms of the participation in events.

At the same time, the Working Group will start a dialogue regarding protection and support for minorities with the respective countries, among which also Czech Republic, Slovakia, Croatia and Serbia.

Priorities for 2017:

- Seminar of Slavic Minorities on 22.-25. June 2017 in occasion of the International Folklore Festival Lausitz/Łužica
- Establishment of a Coordination Centre for the Working Group of Slavic Minorities
- Dialogue with the single states

The Working Group of Turkic Minorities

Road map adopted. Based on the initiative by FUEN Vice President, Halit Habipoglu, the Working Group of Turkic Minorities was established. Since 2013, he has been active as the Vice President of the FUEN Presidium. By following the example of other working groups under the FUEN, he succeeded in establishing the Turkic Minorities working group as an additional working group under the FUEN.

This new format of uniting Turkish minorities under the FUEN Working Groups, envisions a strong solidarity and cooperation amid Turkish minorities and other historic minorities. The aim is to support Turkish minorities on a vast geographical area from the Caucasus to the Balkans with the same passion as ABTTF is acting on behalf of Turkish minorities of the Western Thrace.

In 2016 the Working Group of Turkic Minorities can look back onto their 3rd annual meeting. With logistical support from FUEN's Working Group of German Minorities (AGDM) the meeting was held successfully from 14-17 November in Berlin.

The meeting collected Turkish minorities from different countries of Europe. Turks in Kosovo and Bulgaria attended to the meeting for the first time: The Kosovo Young Association of Kosovo and the Kardzhali Turkish Culture and Art Association from Bulgaria represented the Turkish minorities in the Balkans.

The Working Group of Turkic Minorities is looking to expanding its ranks with Turkish minorities from the Balkans, who they eventually are hoping to introduce as new members into the FUEN.

FUEN President Loránt Vincze informed the participants about FUEN's work, and further concluded, that the FUEN will continue to support Turkish minorities and communities.

In the session titled „Right to learn Native language and Education in Native language“, the participants were informed about their respective rights within their own countries and regions about learning and education in their own mother tongue. They shared information about their activities and experiences from their own countries with civil society representatives on the protection of mother tongue language and education within the same.

FUEN Vice President Halit Habipoglu presented regulation changes and working group regulations from the 2016 FUEN Congress. FUEN Vice President Halit Habipoglu was elected as the speaker of the working group.

The meeting was concluded after the participants discussed the road map and their proposals about the groups' activities for 2017.

The working group is very active in cooperating with international organisations.

In 2016, the working group paid a study visit to the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe. Fact Finding Missions for 2017, amongst others, to the Crimean Tatars in Ukraine, Kosovo, and Bulgaria were prepared.

Priorities for 2017:

- Supporting the concerns of the Meskhetian Turks and the Crimean Tatars through Fact Finding Missions
- New members in the Balkans
- Provide and present the know-how of the Turkish minority concerns in international organizations and to FUEN members

Minority policy – a policy of peace

Challenges in Europe and the rest of the World

In European history crises and conflicts were often due to problems emerging from the coexistence of different nationalities. Many of the 90 FUEN member organisations are affected by the current conflicts in Europe. FUEN promotes a peaceful coexistence of nationalities in Europe and shows that for decades minorities have carried out a peaceful and future-oriented commitment in many European regions. Indeed, minority policy is a policy of peace.

Participation and dialogue between equals

In the political multi-level system of Europe, the FUEN, in close cooperation with the international organisations, tries to strengthen minority concerns together with states and regions. With its many years of experience and its extensive network, the FUEN encourages the relevant actors to lead a sustainable minority policy.

FUEN aims at establishing a political representation at the European Union level with the European Parliament - similar to the contact committees and advisory committees at national level. Currently the FUEN a participatory status at the Council of Europe and has consultative status with the United Nations. The FUEN demands that the Council of Europe's human rights conventions, the recommendations of the OSCE, as well as the conventions and political instruments of the United Nations, will be taken seriously and should develop with the course of time.

European Dialogue Forum

Together with MEPs from the European Parliament, FUEN launched the European Dialogue Forum in 2008. The aim is to establish a dialogue and contact committee for the interests of the minorities directly at the European Parliament.

Celebrating the success of the Minority SafePack in the European Parliament

03.05.2017 – Press releases

On May 3–4 the FUEN is holding a conference in Brussels, under the high patronage of the President of the European Parliament, Antonio Tajani. The conference entitled Hit the road – the Minority SafePack Initiative and the European Parliament is being hosted by RMDSZ MEPs Iuliu Winkler and Csaba Sógor, representatives of the Hungarian community in Romania. The two-day conference started on Wednesday with a constructive internal meeting about the strategy of the Minority SafePack (MSPI) petition campaign followed by a work-dinner in the European Parliament.

President of the European Parliament fully supports the FUEN Minority SafePack

The conference at the European Parliament was held under the high patronage of the new president of the European Parliament, Mr. Antonio Tajani. The successor of Mr. Schulz, has for the first time appointed an advisor to the linguistic minorities in the EU. Mr. Tajani’s term runs up to the European Parliament elections in June 2019.

„The citizens are the center of Europe, not the states, that is why the European Citizens‘ Initiative is so important and noone should feel like a second grade citizen because all languages are equal as key elements of our diversity.“ – this was the main message of the European Parliaments‘ President Antonio Tajani as transmitted by his personal councillor for minority issues Markus Warasin who reassured the FUEN that the President very much supports the Minority Safe-Pack Initiative and his door is always open.“

Dr. Markus Warasin, from South Tyrol, has previously held positions in the European Parliament and with the European Bureau for Lesser Used Languages. FUEN is looking forward to working together to improve the situation of European minorities and their languages.

FORUM OF THE EUROPEAN MINORITIES

European Regions Forum – 1st time at the EUROPEADA

Minorities in Europe, which includes more than 100 million Europeans, want to contribute to shaping the future of Europe and strengthening European civil society.

With the formation of a forum for European Minorities, the FUEN wants to find new approaches, in order to gain the support from European multilingual regions.

In particular, the FUEN has been closely linked to the federal state of Schleswig-Holstein, the Autonomous Region of Trentino-Alto Adige and the Autonomous Province of South Tyrol-Bolzano, the Free State of Saxony, Land of Carinthia, Eastern Belgium, Brandenburg, South Denmark and Denmark, and the Federal Republic of Germany. Further regions and sponsors will follow.

“Our dream – the dream of the autochthonous, nationalities minorities – is that the minorities in all of Europe are allowed to maintain their own culture and language and have the same rights as the majority in their country”, said Loránt Vincze, the president of the Federal Union of European Nationalities (FUEN), the largest umbrella organisation of the European minorities, for an audience of about 150 guests at the high plateau of Kronplatz/Plan de Corones.

On the occasion of the opening of the 3rd European Football Championship of the Minorities, South Tyrol invited to a forum of the regions and sponsors of the FUEN for the first time. On a 2275-meter high mountain top in South Tyrol, on the edge of the Dolomites, the South Tyrolean president Arno Kompatscher and FUEN President Vincze welcomed numerous representatives from the different regions.

South Tyrol with its German- and Ladin-speaking minorities shows, like the German-speaking minority in Belgium and the Danish-German border region, where four national minorities are at home, how a peaceful co-existence is possible that is of benefit for all.

“These examples are an inspiration for many regions and national minorities”, said president Vincze at the opening event.

“We share the wish of FUEN that the national minorities in Europe shall enjoy the same rights everywhere and therefore that we should continue to campaign together so that the European citizens’ initiative Minority SafePack, which urges the implementation of several measures for the protection for the minorities, will become a success”, said Hartmut Koschyk, member of the German federal parliament and German federal government commissioner for matters related to ethnic German resettlers and national minorities.

“These examples are an inspiration for many regions and national minorities”, said president Vincze at the opening event.

For 2017, the Forum will be organised by the Government of the German-speaking Community at the invitation of East Belgium and Minister-President Oliver Paasch.

„The EUROPEADA is much more than just a sports event; it is a major symbol for the diversity of Europe with guaranteed rights for all the minorities. You can see in several countries that nationalist thinking is on the rise again. We have to oppose this sentiment. The EUROPEADA is a good opportunity to show how powerful a Europe based on diversity can be”, said the South Tyrolean president Arno Kompatscher at Kronplatz/Plan de Corones.

3rd European Minorities Football Championship

A sports event in the sign of linguistic and cultural diversity

The concept of the EUROPEADA is simple and ambitious at the same time. It aims to make use of the enthusiasm for football, carrying out a tournament that takes place at the same time as the UEFA European Football Championship.

The EUROPEADA is a European large-scale event that combines fair play and the enthusiasm of a sports event with the issues of the autochthonous national minorities. The focus lies on bringing minorities together, giving them the chance to exchange their thoughts and experience, as well as on the public promotion of their issues. The EUROPEADA, a protected FUEN trademark, is organised by the FUEN itself.

Whereas, the past tournaments were hosted by the Romansh from the Canton of Grisons in 2008 and the Lusatian Sorbs in 2012, the 3rd EUROPEADA took place in South Tyrol from 18 – 26 June 2016. Compared to the 19 male teams that participated in past tournaments, in the Pustertal and Gadertal valleys it was 24 male teams who competed against each other. The tournament is open to all non-professional football players who belong to the respective minority.

The tournament was organised by the FUEN and hosted by the Ladin and German-speaking minorities in South Tyrol. It is important to point out, though, that there was a major difference to the UEFA European Football Championship: in 2016, for the first time there was also a female tournament within the EUROPEADA, which will definitely be part of the EUROPEADA also in future editions.

After the assignment of the EUROPEADA in 2014, the preparation work was carried out by the Association of South Tyrolean Sports Organisations under supervision of Siegfried Stocker. The official drawing for the tournament took place in December 2015 in Bozen/ Bolzano. In February 2016, FUEN representatives visited several sports associations, tourist organisations, media and partners. During the 6 days of the EUROPEADA, a total of 67 matches involving 30 teams took place.

Both the female and the male tournament were won by the hosting minority. Additionally, a Fairplay Award was assigned.

An important part of the EUROPEADA is also the Culture day which allows minorities to present themselves and get to know each other. The Culture Day 2016 was organised by the Museum Ladin, which at the same time also carried out an International Conference for Museums of Minorities.

EUROPEADA 2020

The FUEN has opened the request for tender in relation to the hosting of the EUROPEADA 2020 at the beginning of the year 2016. Besides the German-Danish border region, also the Carinthian Slovenes have submitted their application. Both regions are characterised by European enthusiasm and the 100-year- anniversary since border demarcation.

Following the three previous successful EUROPEADA tournaments, the program had to be evaluated. Experience's from the organisers and participating teams were taken up and other various aspects had to be examined, such as the goal of the project, logistics, the program, fair play, the self-understanding of the teams as ambassadors of their own minorities, and to assess the commitment of the teams. Finally the process of finding a host for the upcoming EUROPEADA 2020 had to be initiated.

FUEN partners and major focus

The FUEN maintains a large network and many contacts with the European minorities and their organisations, political officials, scientific institutes, youth organisations, media, cultural and educational institutions, as well as with many other partners.

The Youth of European Nationalities (YEN) is the European umbrella organisation for the youth of European minorities and a major FUEN partner www.yeni.org.

Some of the most important FUEN partners are: the Network to Promote Linguistic Diversity (NPLD), Mercator European Research Centre on Multilingualism and Language Learning, Minorities Dailies Association (MIDAS), European Free Alliance (EFA), Unrepresented Nations and Peoples Association (UNPO), European Centre for Minority Issues (ECMI), the European Academy Bozen/Bolzano (EURAC), the Association Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ) GmbH and Ajatushautomo Magma – Think tank Magma.

It is this network across the most different fields of activity that constitutes one of FUEN's major strengths. FUEN also supports the Association of European Minority Theatres, the Association of European Minority Museums, as well as various partners in the fields life-long learning, sports, civil society, media and science.

FEDERAL UNION OF EUROPEAN NATIONALITIES

Support and Finance

FUEN is a non-profit organisation, which receives its income predominantly through public subsidies and institutional grants, project grants and membership contributions.

After FUEN succeeded in consolidating its financial situation in the years 2014-2016, it is possible to present positive results for the third consecutive year, in the financial year 2016.

FUEN increased its total budget as follows:

The main components of the budget are comprised of the institutional funding provided by eight grant-givers from different regions and states, the increased funding by the Federal Republic of Germany and the Hungarian Government, additional project grants and the contributions by the Member Organisations.

The positive annual accounts for 2016 enable FUEN to raise further public funding and free-to-use funds and donations. It is our aim to get additional institutional funding for the FUEN to establish a sustainable project structure and a fund for European minorities.

Especially in regards to the implementation of the Minority SafePack Initiative and for providing support to minorities, a positive acquisition of new funds is required.

THE PRECIOUS ROLE OF MINORITIES IN EUROPEAN SOCIETIES

Project: House of Minorities

An European centre of information and documentation

The minorities in Europe – with more than 100 million European citizens – carry a potential that still has not been fully explored with their knowledge and experience remaining mostly unused.

Despite the minorities' visible contribution to linguistic and cultural diversity, often their skills and competences which could favour economic and regional development are not being considered.

The “House of Minorities” in Flensburg is an initiative of the FUEN and its partners in the Danish-German border region aiming to establish a European information and documentation centre. This unique European centre for minorities is supposed to be located in the historical “Speicher” building in Flensburg.

Already in Autumn 2014, supported by a start-up-funding of the Bundesland Schleswig-Holstein in the context of a common INTERREG Project, a branch office of the House of Minorities was officially inaugurated. The House of Minorities is a rather ambitious project aiming to display minority issues.

Since then the House of Minorities has organised more than 100 events of various formats, all recorded in the House's Journal.

“With this building we started to put our idea into practice and give it a first and temporary location: a House of Minorities, a support by minorities for minorities, that shall provide what is still missing: a place inspired by minority experience, where minorities, majorities and other interested people from all over Europe can come together.”, says Renate Schnack, Minority Commissioner to the Prime Minister of Schleswig-Holstein, in occasion of the inauguration in 2014.

Among other issues the focus lies on the realisation of projects with minorities in crisis regions. That is how the first projects started in 2014 with Ukraine, followed by projects with minorities from the Western Balkans and the Caucasus.

In April 2017, the Youth of European Nationalities awarded a price for a video competition. Moreover, in the same month the MSPI celebration for the Danish-German border region took place.

For the realisation of the House of Minorities a reconstruction of the historical “Speicher” building is required. In November 2015, the German government has already assigned 600 thousand Euro for the project. The Bundesland Schleswig-Holstein, as well as the City of Flensburg have assured their support. Under the supervision of the organisation Sydslesvigsk Forening the project is supposed to be fully realised for the anniversary celebrations in the Danish-German border region in 2020.

Events Overview:
House of Minorities

Has already written history

It is the most important initiative of the European minorities over the last decades: FUEN members have launched a European citizens' initiative for the minorities:

The initiative is about protecting and promoting national minorities and language groups to ensure linguistic and cultural diversity in Europe.

On April 3rd 2017, 9 of the 11 proposed measures were approved by the EU Commission for signature collection.

The initiative addresses the entire EU population and will furthermore provide symbolic support from across Europe. The minorities want to collect more than 1 million signatures for the preservation of diversity in Europe in an unprecedented, solidarity campaign. Together we will persuade Europeans to support and sign our initiative. Thereby we should succeed in strengthening and protecting the European cultural and linguistic heritage.

Annex – Full list of the 11 proposals of the 'Minority Safepack' Citizens' Initiative

- 01 A recommendation of the Council 'on the protection and promotion of cultural and linguistic diversity in the Union' on the basis of the second indent of Article 167(5) TFEU and the second indent of Article 165(4) TFEU;
- 02 A decision or a regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on the basis of the first indent of Article 167(5) TFEU and the first indent of Article 165(4) TFEU, the subject matter of which is to adapt 'funding programmes so that they become accessible for small regional and minority language communities';
- 03 A decision or a regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on the basis of the first indent of Article 167(5) TFEU and the first indent of Article 165(4) TFEU, the subject matter of which is to create a centre for linguistic diversity that will strengthen awareness of the importance of regional and minority languages and will promote diversity at all levels and be financed mainly by the European Union;
- 04 regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on the basis of Articles 177 TFEU and 178 TFEU, the subject matter of which is to adapt the common provisions relating to EU regional funds in such a way that the protection of minorities and the promotion of cultural and linguistic diversity are included therein as thematic objectives;
- 05 A regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on the basis of Article 173(3) TFEU and Article 182(1) TFEU, the subject matter of which is to change the regulation relating to the 'Horizon 2020' programme for the purposes of improving research on the added value that national minorities and cultural and linguistic diversity may bring to social and economic development in regions of the EU;
- 06 A Council directive, regulation or decision on the basis of Article 20(2) TFEU and Article 25 TFEU, for the purpose of strengthening within the EU the place of citizens belonging to a national minority, with the aim of ensuring that their legitimate concerns are taken into consideration in the election of Members of the European Parliament; [considered not admissible by the Commission]
- 07 Effective measures to address discrimination and to promote equal treatment, including for national minorities, in particular through a revision of the existing Council directives on the subject of equal treatment, on the basis of Article 19(1) TFEU; [considered not admissible by the Commission]
- 08 The amendment of the EU legislation in order to guarantee approximately equal treatment for stateless persons and citizens of the Union, on the basis of Article 79(2) TFEU;
- 09 A regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on the basis of Article 118 TFEU, in order to introduce a unitary copyright so that the whole EU can be considered an internal market in the field of copyright;
- 10 An amendment of Directive 2010/13/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 10 March 2010 on the coordination of certain provisions laid down by law, regulation or administrative action in Member States concerning the provision of audiovisual media services, for the purpose of ensuring the freedom to provide services and the reception of audiovisual content in regions where national minorities reside, on the basis of Article 53(1) TFEU and Article 63 TFEU;
- 11 A Council regulation or decision, with a view to the block exemption of projects promoting national minorities and their culture, on the basis of Article 109 TFEU, Article 108(4) TFEU or Article 107(3)(e) TFEU.

Our Members

There are more than 400 minorities in Europe, and more than 90 of them are united under the umbrella of FUEN. They make an important contribution to the irreplaceable heritage of Europe. FUEN is a community based on solidarity, a family and an interest group at the same time. It is the critically thinking and committed people and active organisations that drive our network.
